

2005 Dark Horse Dry Creek Zinfandel

Tasting Notes:

You can lead a horse to water but you can also push a mule to drink a great Zin. Our 2005 Zinfandel is the real kick. The grapes were harvested from a hillside vineyard only a donkey would fall up. The trail winds through patches of blackberry, cherry and the occasional gooseberry bush. This Zinfandel was aged in 100% American oak – quite possibly from a tree in Daniel Boone's backyard. Like the nag in a horse race, the flavors just never finish. This wine pairs well with whatever's on the chuck wagon.
